

Agricultural Workforce Policy Board

Annual Report 2000

May 2000

Introduction

The Agricultural Workforce Policy Board (AWPB) hosts an annual planning workshop as an opportunity to: communicate; enhance the awareness of the human resource side of our business; develop innovative approaches and directions on the impacts of labour policy; leadership issues; youth job and career issues; and, identification of emerging issues. The workshop results form the basis of an annual report and ultimately directions for the year to develop a common approach and priorities.

The intent of the workshop is to share opinions and ideas, in an attempt to avoid duplication, use resources wisely, foster greater interagency and commodity communication and gain insight on the mandates of other agencies or organizations, while developing partnerships and priorities on the key areas of focus. The AWPB workshop provides an opportunity for producers, from a variety of regions, backgrounds and commodities, to work with each other and government partners.

The following represents the key issues outlined during the annual planning workshop by 44 participants, comprised of youth, industry organizations, industry participants, government agencies and worker representatives. The participants were asked to define the issues but to think also about a series of actions. The three topic areas were:

1. Awareness of Safety and Training

This session looked at the WCB classification increases. Expected outcomes: Clear recommendations that can be presented as options to BCAC.

2. What are the emerging issues?

Expected Outcome: Clearly articulate emerging issues to focus on and build recommendations and opportunities to address.

3. Building a Vision for Human Resources in Agriculture

Expected Outcome: In a "perfect world" what would BC agriculture look like (not just identify issues). Clear resources, actions and structures in place.

Agricultural Workforce Policy Board

AWPB Annual Report 2000

Part I Awareness of Safety and Training

In the summer of 1999 the agricultural industry became concerned about changes to the Workers Compensation Board classification system, to be implemented in 2000. Under the new classification system some sectors would see employer contribution rates increasing from 2.8% to 7.47% over the next 3 years. While the implications of an accident on any farm would see rates rise by up to 33%.

To develop an awareness of safety and the implications of increased rates the AWPB sought to develop dialogue to mitigate the WCB classification rate increase and develop opportunities. This by no means is an overnight process.

Priority Areas:

1. Enhance education

Themes:

To lower WCB claims and accidents greater training and education is required. It is the role of the employer or trainer to communicate and provide a greater length of time for on-farm training, in this FARSHA can play a key role. The employee must also take responsibility for his or her own training. The highest incident of accidents in the cattle industry is youth and or to employees on the job less than 1 year.

- There are enormous implications for all sectors that may have lower classifications when accidents occur. Classification rates can increase by up to 100% in 33% jumps over three years. Due diligence with respect to training and education and understanding the process is required.

Action Matrix:

Theme: Safety and Education	Partners	Action
Due diligence with respect to on-farm training and education.	employer	leadership
	FARSHA	training and education
	AWPB	communication, case studies
	BCAC	communication

Draw all sectors into the program of education, training and due diligence (explain why it pays). 2. Communications strategy

Themes:

Agriculture does not communicate well; producers are often "afraid" of not understanding the issues and do not speak up or ask questions. Producers who may look on FARSHA as a regulatory body often misunderstand the role of FARSHA.

- Little or no training is currently provided to safeguard against accidents on the job. This relates to human resource management practices on-farm.
- There appears to be a lack of understanding of WCB on the farm. It appears that commodity managers may understand but the information may not filter to the farm where accidents happen. Search out best methods of communication and the development of structures or projects to put in place.

Action Matrix:

Theme: Communications/Structure	Role	Action
Develop an impact analysis to tie to safety training results, to lowering of classifications	BCAC	leadership
	FARSHA	communication, facilitation
	AWPB	communication
Direct communications to commodities in a simple format on WCB, education and training	BCAC	leadership
	FARSHA	communication
	WCB	information, dialogue
	AWPB	communication
Identify ingredients to lower rates. BCAC working with AWPB (roles defined) and FARSHA will seek to develop dialogue with WCB: 1) possibly set agriculture apart from industrial sectors or models that the WCB classification system is based upon; 2) WCB develop tools and profiles on the job to better understand agriculture; 3) BCAC help to increase industry participation on FARSHA safety, training and education through work on member attitude and culture changes on health and safety issues.	Employers	participation in training and education
	BCAC	leadership, development of team approach
	FARSHA	training and education, communication and consultation
	WCB
	AWPB	farm profiles, regulatory review, pilot programs for agriculture
	MAFF	communication, facilitation
		interagency consultation

3. Utilize resources through WCB and FARSHA

Themes:

Industry participants expressed concern about where to go to find the help that is required to understand the system and classifications, how to apply for programs that may help to lower rates and how to apply for funds to make this process work for agriculture. In turn WCB must learn about agriculture to better implement a "reality check" for a classification system that works with agriculture. Further it was determined that FARSHA is not well known or utilized by industry.

Action Matrix:

Theme: Safer Workplace Utilize Resources	Role	Action

Develop incentives for safe employees (share in the savings)	Employers	leadership, communication
Develop a tier approach to safety and awareness the ultimate reward is financial incentive	BCAC	leadership and awards
	FARSHA	advocacy, training and education
Encouraging a better understanding and the development of "farm profiles" through WCB.	BCAC	leadership
	WCB	information and accessibility
	FARSHA	partner
Access the available funding for agriculture to develop a proposal that provides a framework for the actuarial data required to reflect classifications within sectors	BCAC	leadership for commodity
	FARSHA	partner and facilitation
Development of safety training that reflects the sectors.	FARSHA	development, delivery, communication
	workers	take training
	AWPB	communication
	MAFF	communication
	BCAC	direction, leadership

4. Celebrate and Reward producers who make Safety an Issue

Themes:

Enhance communication about what is working and why through case studies.

Action Matrix:

Theme: Rewards	Role	Action
Develop safety awards, reward producers, raise the profile of due diligence.	BCAC	leadership
	FARSHA	selection and awards
	WCB	awards
	AWPB	communication

Develop short stories of farms and ranches that have training and approaches in place. Broader sector communication on all the above	FARSHA AWPB	leadership communication, facilitation
Impact analysis to tie safety training results to lowering classifications	BCAC FARSHA AWPB	leadership communication and facilitation communication
Develop safety awards, reward producers and raise the profile of due diligence	BCAC FARSHA WCB workers AWPB	leadership selection and awards awards, recognition, lower classification rewards and recognition communication

Agricultural Workforce Policy Board

AWPB Annual Report 2000 Part II Emerging Issues

To better understand the emerging issues and how they relate to the workforce each group was asked to look at how agriculture develops long term planning for labour requirements. For example:

- How does agriculture continue to attract a new generation to agriculture
- Are programs needed to improve worker information and the capacity to apply for jobs?
- Who will be on the farm in ten years time?
- Human resource management skills and the changing structure of farms.

The priority areas are arranged into themes that emerged, these are as follows:

1. Viability of Agriculture/Marketing

Themes:

It was suggested that each sector must be required to complete an economic assessment that reflects true costs of production, the outcome may be a flow of what agriculture can do better.

The emphasis for agriculture has been on globalization; the feeling of lack of control of markets and products often has the ability to paralyze industry. Access to information that looks at production and management approaches that focuses on quality and the ability to change rapidly is not easily available. Commodity prices continue to fall, returns get lower. Yet some sectors continue to place a low importance on the value of marketing strategies or development of actions for increased profit. The following comments were picked up in all three groups:

Federal government programs are out of touch with industry. We need to diversify and develop markets. The status quo is not working.

Participants expressed concern about the absence of "leaders" in agriculture when comparing opinions and developing ideas, i.e. Investment Agriculture, BCAC, MAFF, are we only speaking to ourselves?

How do we market the product, the 'life style', value on the life style, and provide a focus on the positive side of this industry.

Agriculture organizations remain out of touch with agriculture at large -- lack of stable funding continues to create a climate of competition for issues and funds, rather than getting the job done.

Action Matrix:

Theme: Skill Development	Role	Action
Food security - we have to 'hedge our bets' - diversify and experiment and develop the skills to meet and make change.	BCAC	leadership, advocacy
	MAFF	farm business management, information
	AWPB	partner, facilitation and communication
	Invest Ag	support, leadership
Develop more programs to address, leadership, human resource management, farm business management and the skills required to meet changes, including changes in attitudes - workers are a resource.	BCAC	advocacy, leadership
	MAFF	support
	AWPB	development, communication and facilitation
	Invest Ag	support
Develop marketing approaches in BC, and the broad range of skills needed to be viable in the future.	BCAC	leadership and visions
	MAFF	farm management
	AWPB	leadership and facilitation
	MAETT	support (formal and informal)
We must have stable agriculture organizations, not competing for issues and funds.	BCAC	leadership
	MAFF	legislation, policy framework

Theme: Marketing	Role	Action
Work with Buy BC to develop industry input.	BCAC	communication to all ag organizations, advocacy
	MAFF	partner with industry to develop long term approaches

Develop communications approaches to Investment Agriculture, BCAC to better understand that one size does not fit all and there are many issues we must deal with.	Invest Ag	greater communication and participation
	BCAC	leadership and vision
	MAFF	advocacy
	AWPB	communication and facilitation
Value the intangibles and showcase the success stories. Develop international forum showcasing B.C. Agriculture (sharing practices, ideas, and market development). Use this as an opportunity to learn.	MAFF	farm management
	BCAC	buy-in and support, ag awareness
	AWPB	communication

2. Awareness of Agriculture

Themes:

Attracting a new generation to agriculture depends on our image, which encompasses wage scales, human resource management skills, the ability to advance on the job and access to information. Improving worker information (no structure) and the capacity to maintain a BC Agricultural Labour Pool is threatened (receives no funding), developing strong advocacy roles to maintain services is critical to sustainability.

Action Matrix:

Theme: career awareness, resources	Role	Action
Work with BCAC Agriculture Awareness in the development of events, presentations on the career or workforce side.	AWPB	leadership, development and facilitation
	BCAC	ag awareness, partnership
	AITC	linkages and improved partnership
	Univ./ College	education, input and direction
	MAFF	4H

Develop a proposal to build on the Food for Thought CD to a higher level of expertise	AWPB Univ. /College AITC BCAC MAFF MAETT	leadership, development and facilitation direction, partnership partnership and advice direction, ag awareness, support interagency consultation interagency consultation
Value the intangibles. Develop a higher profile for AWPB. Celebrate good news stories.	AWPB BCAC MAFF	communication and facilitation leadership and support support
Change image of farming, agriculture is a sustainable business. Develop a scale of where the profit goes to reflect 'true' costs of production, include promotion, marketing, production, labour.	BCAC MAFF Invest Ag AWPB	ag awareness, data communication, support and statistical funding and support communication

3. Human Resources

Themes:

Agriculture needs to sell itself as a career and all that it encompasses and the natural process of "professional development" programs such as leadership programs, human resource management and skill development opportunities.

Excellent careers and good paying jobs - there are 'bright spots' - to encourage people, although the AWPB can not do this alone. Farm succession, access to capital and skill development are key areas, that are largely being left behind. Shortages of good management skills show up in most sectors. Further there are still many employers who lack the skills to make changes. If issues are identified as priorities how does funding follow, i.e. leadership, human resource management rural development opportunities, etc.

Action Matrix:

Theme: HR awareness/new entrants	Role	Action

Development of more partners to support human resource development.	AWPB BCAC MAFF AITC Univ./ College AAFC Invest Ag	leadership, development and facilitation vision and support advocacy education, support curriculum support support
Promote succession, and develop case studies and models that are working, including improved access to information	MAFF BCAC CFBMC AWPB	farm management leadership and advocacy support, linkages communication and linkages
Develop new entrant programs offering opportunities for young people	BCAC AWPB 4H youth org.	leadership, vision and advocacy development, communication development, ideas, communication development, ideas, communication

4. Benchmarking

Themes

In order to measure how far we have come or how far agriculture has to go, there is a need to develop benchmarks with other jurisdictions. The economic viability of farming field crop vegetables, berries and some hard and soft fruits must be part of the benchmarking. Comparisons in direct costs with other jurisdictions in addition to a broad look at innovative methods to secure labour supply will be examined. Viability including competitive pricing vs. minimum wage and other regulatory requirements may also be part of the scope. Benchmarking could include how the peak seasonal demand is approached, in other provinces and countries.

Action Matrix:

Theme: data collection	Role	Action
------------------------	------	--------

The Board will look at the development of benchmarks with other jurisdictions and investigate further broad-based approaches to workforce issues, by highlighting farms that are doing things differently, using innovation, technology to help others through specialization and niche marketing, through applied technology, biometrics, innovation in crop harvesting.	AWPB BCAC MAFF AAFC Invest Ag	development and facilitation leadership, information support support support
Development of data to identify labour shortages, both skilled and unskilled labour during peak and annual periods	BCAC MAFF	leadership support, linkages and interagency consultation

AWPB Annual Report 2000

Part III Building a Vision for Human Resources in Agriculture

Working to build a vision for human resources, the participants determined the following points that need to happen towards the development of a vision for human resource issues in agriculture.

Theme: Employer Vision	Role	Action
A strong and vital industry that has access to both skilled workers and seasonal workers. Career counseling professional's with linkages back to the AWPB to counsel others on the merits of agriculture employment and careers.	AWPB BCAC MAFF AAFC Invest Ag	development and facilitation leadership information, support support support
A provincial leadership program that responds to industry burnout, providing the skills to bring new leaders forward, placing agriculture in a strong position globally and locally.	AWPB BCAC MAFF Invest Ag	communication, facilitation leadership support, linkages and interagency consultation support
Strong partnerships in agriculture that approach the diversity of issues with commitment and vision.	BCAC	leadership
A training culture that acknowledges and supports ongoing training and sees the benefits. This includes graduated training to management levels (includes HR management marketing perspectives and practices sustainability), school programs (CAPP programs in agriculture and agri-ecology).	AWPB MAETT MAFF BCAC	communication, facilitation partnerships, support interagency consultation support
