CHAIR'S MESSAGE

The year 2001 will never be forgotten, and the impacts of world events affected us all, as individuals, organizations and communities.

Never before has the tourism industry been affected as much as by the tragedy of September 11. We have long recognized the importance of strong partnerships, but in the weeks following, the British Columbia tourism industry demonstrated a level of cooperation and resolve that is essential for our long term success.

One strong commitment the provincial government is to be congratulated on is its support for the industry leadership of Tourism British Columbia. Fulfilling his promise, Premier Campbell has ensured that all 15 seats on the Tourism British Columbia Board are industry-nominated and industry-elected. This private/public partnership has demonstrated outstanding results over the years, and the vote of confidence from government that the model is working will provide a sound foundation for future strategic growth.

A solid foundation has never been more important, as external factors create new challenges for British Columbia's tourism industry. Through continued innovation, partnership and planning, I believe we will be able to maintain and grow our competitiveness.

The outcome of this most unusual year is summarized in our Annual Report. I would like to offer my sincere thanks to all staff and my fellow Board members for their commitment and determination throughout this past fiscal year.

Michael Duggan
Chair, Board of Directors

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Under normal circumstances, $9.2 billion in revenue and 22.4 million visitors would be considered an excellent year for tourism. However, these figures represent the first time the British Columbia industry did not meet or exceed original projections. The terrible tragedy of September 11 was joined by several other influencing factors, such as airline industry instability and economic downturns in various markets throughout the world that had immediate and continuing impacts on British Columbia's tourism industry.

Notwithstanding these challenges, several positives can be identified. First, the decrease in revenue our industry experienced as a destination was not as dramatic as was felt by several of our competitors around the globe. There is no doubt the diversity and quality of our winter product played an important part in minimizing impacts, and demonstrates the value of developing a broad range of products throughout the province, across all seasons.

Continued accessibility to British Columbia via land and air was an advantage, although long-term border security practices need to be developed that have the least impact on visitors' experiences. The airline issue is more complex, as the evolution of the Canadian air industry and related policies unfold. Tourism British Columbia is proud of the contributions we have made to this important national discussion.

However, I believe the test of how British Columbia's tourism industry performed in this past year comes from answering two key questions: What did we do as an industry to react to September 11, and how did our equity in primary markets perform for us?

Never before have I seen our industry come together to address such major issues, as they did following September 11. The leadership, spirit of cooperation and joint actions have established the foundation for a solid recovery.

Through years of cooperative marketing with our many partners, the equity in our Super, Natural British Columbia* brand has positioned British Columbia to successfully compete with other leading destinations for the limited dollars of prospective visitors.

As an individual organization, Tourism British Columbia's contribution to our industry's recovery is described throughout this Annual Report.

My personal thanks to our industry partners, our Board and our staff for their resolve through a difficult year, and I look forward to a return to growth for our industry.

Rod Harris
President and Chief Executive Officer

To ensure Tourism British Columbia continues to be responsive to the needs of the tourism industry, performance measures have been incorporated at three key levels: industry performance, corporate performance, and individual business unit performance in each of the organization's operating divisions.

Industry Performance

Industry performance is gauged by an extensive combination of indicators with particular focus on accommodation statistics such as room revenue, occupancy levels and average daily rates. In addition, Tourism British Columbia monitors visitation through customs entries, airport arrivals, cruise ship activity, attendance at provincial parks, ferry traffic, highway traffic and visitor party information gathered throughout the provincial Visitor Info Centre network.

Corporate Performance

Tourism British Columbia's corporate performance is measured through an annual Stakeholder Survey administered by a third-party professional research organization, involving feedback from over 400 randomly selected industry stakeholders each year. The corporation's performance target is to achieve a minimum satisfaction level of 3.5 out of a maximum of five.

Business Unit Performance

In each of the corporation's core business functions, approved performance measures have been established relating to the specific activities, objectives and goals as defined in the annual business plan.

ORGANIZATION OVERVIEW

The calendar year 2001 saw British Columbia's decade-long trend of tourism growth come to an end. Though the industry was tracking for another increase through the first three quarters of 2001, the impacts of September 11 had an immediate negative impact on visitation. Overall revenue for the year saw a decline to $9.2 billion, down 2.3% from the previous year's all-time high of $9.5 billion. Notwithstanding this, the industry continues to be a major contributor to British Columbia's economy, with 111,890 people employed in jobs directly related to tourism in 2000.

THE YEAR IN REVIEW

Tourism British Columbia's Research Unit tracks a number of key indicators to capture a comprehensive picture of industry performance each year. Final statistics for 2001 show that overnight entries from the United States were up 0.4% for the year, with Asia/Pacific down 3.5% and Europe down 6.2%. Overall, Overnight Customs Entries were down 0.9% from all international markets.

TOURISM BRITISH COLUMBIA CORPORATE PERFORMANCE

RESPONSE TO SEPTEMBER 11, 2001

Over the last several months of 2001 and early 2002, Tourism British Columbia reviewed strategic priorities to contain costs to ensure maximum efficiency corporate-wide, with a focus on implementing short-term business actions. This included a $1.96 million budget reduction in fiscal 2002. Spending was reduced in more than 20 program areas throughout the corporation.

The reductions included:

- A freeze on salary increases and hiring
- A reduction in staff travel and capital spending
- 38% reduction in Board expenses
- Cuts to research and human resource development
- Cross-the-board reductions in all internal departments including Business Development, Marketing and Sales and Tourism Operations

A positive outcome was increased direct interaction with operators, and more comprehensive tracking of key information to assist Tourism British Columbia and the industry.

This has proven to be advantageous as increased marketing spending by direct competitors, increased oil prices, volatile world economies and airline industry restructuring continue to create challenges in attracting new visitors to British Columbia. A further obstacle is that the organizations Tourism British Columbia has traditionally partnered with also have reduced funding. This will impact Tourism British Columbia's ability to maximize cooperative marketing opportunities, traditionally one of the most important components of British Columbia's success.

MILESTONES

Tourism British Columbia has now completed its first five-year strategic planning cycle as an industry-led Crown corporation. As demonstrated by achievements throughout this period, the organization has a firm commitment to fulfilling its purpose and mandate, in building tourism business throughout British Columbia. In addition to performance measures in all program areas, the success of Tourism British Columbia is highlighted by external recognition received over the past five years.

SuperHost* – 15 Years of Excellence

SuperHost* was developed in preparation for EXPO 86 as a customer service training program. It is an internationally recognized tool for customer service training that has seen over 600,000 participants in British Columbia since its inception, and is widely used throughout the world.

SuperHost* has been licensed to several destinations, demonstrating that British Columbia is competitive in the export of customer service excellence. Among these destinations are England, Wales, Scotland, New Zealand, Australia, Alaska, Hong Kong, Ontario, Northwest Territories, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

Super, Natural British Columbia* – 25 Years of Distinction

Super, Natural British Columbia was launched as a brand in 1978. More than $500 million has been invested by both the public and private sectors in making this one of the most identifiable international brands in Canada.

Findings from a recent research study conducted by Roger Barnes Marketing Planning show the Super, Natural British Columbia brand has strong familiarity with prospective travelers in key target markets.

Specifically in British Columbia, 95% of British Columbians recall the Super, Natural British Columbia brand, which places it among popular brands such as Volkswagen’s “Drivers Wanted” and Kodak’s “Share Moments” that were also included in the survey. Recognition for Super, Natural British Columbia is almost 50% greater in awareness than all other competitive jurisdictions.

Also of great importance is that 75% of respondents thought that travel to a destination described as “Super, Natural” was appealing, and 8 in 10 respondents thought it was a good description of British Columbia.

Over the decades, millions of guides have been used by travelers from around the world to plan their Super, Natural British Columbia vacation.

MARKETING AND SALES

The Marketing and Sales team works with industry partners to develop and deliver cost effective consumer and trade marketing programs. Tourism British Columbia's programs are designed to satisfy the various consumer interests and purchasing behaviour exhibited in each of our core North American and overseas markets. In building these diverse activities, the overriding goal is to build tangible business results for the tourism industry throughout the province.

The events of September 11 affected economic conditions and consumer confidence in travel around the world. Accordingly, overall performance highlights for 2001/02 are a combination of achievements prior to September 11 and performance in the aftermath of the tragedy.

Following the impact of such a significant event, gathering information on consumer confidence and travel intentions was of critical importance. As a result, Tourism British Columbia led the development and implementation of a new monthly tour operator tracking system designed to monitor current and future booking patterns of travelers from 123 of the key tour operators located in core markets around the world.

In addition, consumer research conducted by the Canadian Tourism Commission and other travel organizations was reviewed to gain insight to those markets and types of messaging that would deliver short and medium term business. Collecting new information from the consumer and travel trade allowed us to review the effectiveness of Tourism British Columbia's marketing activities to ensure the best programs were put in place.

The BC Escapes® program has consistently delivered increasing business to the hotel sector over the past few years. Not only does it benefit participating properties, but it also promotes the broader options to visit the province overall. We look forward to participating in this successful initiative as it evolves in the future.

Stephen M. Darling

General Manager, The Westin Grand Vancouver

Tourism British Columbia, in partnership with industry, developed and implemented a new $1 million winter newspaper campaign in North America targeted at the Seattle, Calgary and Toronto markets. Well targeted, integrated, direct response campaigns such as BC Escapes® were also confirmed as relevant to the prevailing market conditions. Accordingly, the BC Escapes® campaign was launched as originally planned in February 2002 with results for the first quarter of the 2002/03 fiscal year exceeding targets. BC Escapes® continues to build on previous success that produced $62 million in tourism revenue in 2001, an increase of 44% from the spring of 2000.

The Tourism Partners Program, which is delivered together with British Columbia's six tourism regions, saw over 1000 businesses cost effectively reach high potential consumers from close in markets. Over 250 distinct advertising campaigns were executed and 1.6 million regional vacation planners and product sector guides were put in the hands of interested consumers.

Due to the concerns about travel to other parts of the world, we saw a significant increase in interest from travel media located in Canada and the US, that led to 148 press trips to British Columbia and over $67.6 million of unpaid media.

BUSINESS UNIT PERFORMANCE REPORT 2001/02

From an overseas perspective, the severe lack of consumer confidence and economic challenges in Asia/Pacific markets led to a reduction in planned winter/ski activities. A positive highlight was the live broadcast of the popular Australian morning news program, The Today Show, from western Canada in May. This broadcast reached a total of one million viewers per day for a five day period and provided an estimated advertising equivalency value of $3.2 million. In conjunction with the Today Show, an extensive cooperative advertising and public relations media campaign was executed with travel trade partners who generated directly related packaged tour sales valued at $3 million.

In Europe, the United Kingdom remained a strong and confident travel market allowing for program activities to continue with particular emphasis placed on the ski sector following September 11. In the United Kingdom and Germany, our participation with the CTC in the winter consumer advertising program continued. This campaign produced a total of 41,000 inquiries regarding travel to Canada and British Columbia.

Of the many activities undertaken in Europe, a key initiative was the DERTOUR Reisakademie held in Vancouver from November 28 to December 10, successfully hosted in partnership with Tourism Vancouver and the CTC. DERTOUR is the largest travel agency chain in Germany and each year for the past 29 years has taken their travel academy of 700 top travel agents to different locations in the world. Along with co-hosting the event, Tourism British Columbia was responsible for the opening ceremonies, two First Nations evenings, and several pre-and-post tours that saw a total of 350 agents participate in 16 separate tours in various parts of British Columbia. Each host destination becomes the "Destination of the Year" for DERTOUR in the following year, and traditionally sees improved business results following the year the academy was held.

Along with hosting key events, Tourism British Columbia representatives continued to develop strong relationships with the travel trade and travel media in all our overseas markets. To assist key tour operators in reaching their target audience, 65 trade promotional programs were introduced. In travel media, Tourism British Columbia hosted 71 overseas press trips and achieved $ 18.2 million of unpaid media.

In the face of major challenges and the resulting increase in competitive activity, effective partnership efforts have never been more essential. In fiscal 2001/02, Tourism British Columbia was able to further increase a direct marketing investment of $8 million to more than $23.5 million through partnerships with industry and other tourism organizations. This level of investment allowed Tourism British Columbia and our industry partners to achieve a greater level of market impact.

Marketing and Sales Goals

- Develop British Columbia's tourism potential from primary target markets among high potential travelers across a range of product experiences.
- Spread the economic benefits of tourism throughout the province and across seasons.
- Leverage financial resources to achieve optimum presence and provide opportunities for tourism businesses to collectively reach target markets.
- Increase number of trips, length of stay and consumer spending levels.

Maintain a minimum 40% British Columbia share of Canadian tours in key tour operator brochures.	Work with tour operators to introduce new product and expand sales of existing product. Develop co-op marketing campaigns with key accounts.	2001 listing analysis showed British Columbia product represented 40.2% of Canadian tours and 42% of Canadian pages within key account brochures.	The impact of September 11 may result in tour operators downsizing their product offerings in 2002.
Achieve a doubling of applied marketing investment through industry leverage.	Partner with the CTC, DMO's and other tourism businesses to develop programs that achieve critical mass.	Leveraged North America working investment of approx $6 million into $15 million worth of programs benefiting British Columbia.

BUSINESS UNIT PERFORMANCE REPORT 2001/02

Marketing and Sales: Overseas (Asia/Pacific and Europe)

Performance Objectives 2001/02 Business Plan	Key Strategies	Results	Comments
Contribute to British Columbia tourism industry's revenue growth of 4.7% (Asia) and 2.1% (Europe) for 2001.	Assist tour operators with the sale of BC product. This involves introduction of product, education and consumer co-op marketing campaigns. Participate in CTC campaigns in key markets, where applicable to increase awareness and generate sales.	Asia/Pacific experienced a 3.0% decline in visitation with a 4.5% decline in revenue. Europe saw a 6.0% decline in visitations with an associated 7.1% decline in revenue.	The effects of September 11, the softening German, Japanese & Taiwanese economies and declining Euro and Yen all had a negative impact upon overseas tourism volumes and revenues.
Achieve a doubling of applied marketing investment through industry leverage.	Develop and participate in programs with other key stakeholders.	Tourism British Columbia leveraged an $811,000 European operating budget to $4.2 million. In Asia/Pacific, $1.2 million was leveraged to $4.3 million.	This objective was added subsequent to the publication of our 2002 published business plan.
Maintain a minimum 40% (Europe) and 60% (Asia) share of Canadian tours in key tour operator brochures.	Meet with tour operators on a regular basis to introduce new product and educate them on existing product. Encourage additional tour operator sales through consumer co-op marketing campaigns.	Obtained 57.1% of the Canadian product represented in UK brochures and 51.5% of the product in German brochures. In Japan, BC's share of escorted tours dropped from 66% to 55%. In both Taiwan and Australia, BC obtained 66% of the product represented.	The UK and Germany delivered 68.6% of the European visitors to British Columbia and are the only two principal European markets where brochure analysis is undertaken. British Columbia had the same number of escorted tours offered in the market as last year. All new tours (i.e. aurora & fall colours) capitalized on routings not favourable to BC. British Columbia saw an increase in specialized and seasonal products, FIT travel and media tours. However, these products are not included in traditional brochures so they are not tracked.
Obtain a 75% rating from buyers and sellers attending Canada's West Marketplace™ (CWM).	Co-host marketplace with Travel Alberta, providing an opportunity for BC and Alberta tourism business to build business from international tour operators.	100% of buyers reported good or very good value from their attendance. 91% of buyers intend to expand their western Canada product as a result of CWM. 65% of sellers reported good or very good value.	Following September 11, many tour operators were forced to stay at home resulting in only 81 buyers attending this year's show (vs. 103 in the previous year). While this lowered overall ratings with sellers, they understood the reason and recognized the good job that was done under difficult circumstances.

TOURISM OPERATIONS

Tourism Operations delivers programs that benefit both industry and visitors at each stage of the travel purchase cycle, from initial inquiries for information through to follow-up contact. These include Visitor Service and Sales, Accommodation Services, Training Services, Information Technology Services and Research Services.

2001/2002 was an important year for Tourism Operations, as it saw Tourism British Columbia assume responsibility for the Vancouver International Airport Visitor Info Centre servicing some 400,000 visitors per year. Operating at the airport was of critical importance during the week of September 11. In partnership with Tourism Vancouver, over 6,000 stranded passengers were assisted in making alternate arrangements and finding accommodation.

In other developments, Tourism British Columbia has been working closely with an industry taskforce responding to critical skill shortages in the labour market and developing long range plans for education and human resources services for the British Columbia tourism industry. Core funding was secured from both federal and provincial governments and the Tourism HRD Task Force launched in October 2001.

Tourism British Columbia continues to be a full partner with tourism stakeholders as we look holistically at our industry, specifically for long term solutions to our industry's current and future unique human resource challenges. Their leadership and expertise is greatly appreciated.

Ian Powell

General Manager, The Fairmont Empress Hotel

Tourism British Columbia's Research Services unit played an important role in tracking the impacts of September 11 and providing current trend information and data to the industry. In addition, expertise was provided to the British Columbia Airline Industry Consortium in the interests of maintaining a high profile for the tourism industry's needs in revised air policy in Canada. Tourism British Columbia chaired the Federal/Provincial Air Working Group and brought forth key recommendations for air policy which were endorsed unanimously by provincial/territorial Ministers responsible for tourism.

Air travel is an important part of the tourism industry with air access affecting a destination's ability to market itself to visitors. Tourism British Columbia, as a founding partner of the BC Air Industry Consortium, continues to be a welcome and active participant in air policy discussions at the provincial and national levels.

Randy Williams

President, Tourism Industry Association of Canada (TIAC)

2000/2001 saw the 75th edition of the British Columbia Approved Accommodation Guide produced and distributed making it the longest running publication of its kind in Canada.

Other performance targets were met and substantial cost reductions obtained through re-negotiated supplier contracts. The Discover Camping on-line booking service handled over 28,000 reservations in provincial park campgrounds, making internet bookings 42% of the overall total. By providing numerous methods for consumers to obtain information and reservations, Tourism British Columbia is ensuring potential customers have resources that suit their unique needs for travel services.

Business Development

The Business Development Division identifies, researches and implements programs for the corporation that help maximize the overall efficiency of the organization and industry. Three key program areas are Corporate Communications, Industry Development and Marketing Services.

The division works closely with all areas of the corporation and with industry stakeholders, providing a valuable connection as many new and existing tourism opportunities evolve.

A highlight of 2001/02 was the re-acquisition of Beautiful British Columbia Magazine. Created by Tourism British Columbia in 1959, it had been sold to a private operator in 1983. The magazine provides a unique enhancement to the corporation's marketing efforts by putting a high quality publication celebrating British Columbia destinations into the hands of a highly qualified audience.

The consistent quality of the publication was recently recognized by the Canadian Magazine Publishers Association when they named the Spring 1995 cover as "Best in Show" among the top 50 Canadian magazine covers of all time.

Tourism British Columbia continued to support the Vancouver 2010 Bid with further sponsorship of WorldHost, which assists communities throughout British Columbia with their efforts to bid for and host international sporting competitions. To date, events associated with WorldHost have welcomed 3292 volunteers, 7030 athletes, 183,480 guests, 550 media and 42 IOC/Sport Federation officials. As the bid rapidly nears a final decision in 2003, Tourism British Columbia has been very active in the planning and implementation of tourism related activities, both to support current bid efforts, and to ensure the tourism opportunity resulting from a successful bid is properly managed.

Tourism represents a significant part of the economic rationale for the Vancouver 2010 bid. Consequently we are extremely gratified that Tourism BC has embraced the initiative by providing thoughtful guidance and strategic leadership towards a plan designed to maximize upon the myriad of provincial tourism opportunities that will be triggered by a successful bid.

John Furlong

President and COO, Vancouver 2010 Bid Corporation

One area of continued success is Travel Media Relations, which is within the Marketing Services unit. Obtaining coverage that highlights British Columbia destinations in key markets throughout the world is a valuable component of overall marketing efforts, and Tourism British Columbia has developed strong partnerships with media and related agencies to ensure maximum exposure for British Columbia product. In 2001, Travel Media Relations helped coordinate 219 press trips and tracked over $85.8 million in unpaid media coverage worldwide.

An excellent example of the value that can be achieved through Travel Media Relations' efforts was the 2001 filming by Jack Hanna in various British Columbia locations. Two film crews visited Vancouver, Salt Spring Island, Central and Northern Vancouver Island, Knight Inlet and the Prince Rupert/Princess Royal Island areas, with local coordination provided by Tourism British Columbia. This included participating in the original pitch to bring the show to Canada, recommending destinations and story ideas in advance, plus managing all on-site logistics for the crew.

Jack Hanna's Animal Adventures is the number-one syndicated wildlife show in North America, and is endorsed by the National Education Association. Jack Hanna's Animal Adventures is syndicated in 95% of the United States market, as well as in more than 65 international television and home video territories. Last year alone, Jack reached over 423,675,000 viewers, and the five British Columbia episodes that ran during February and March were valued at over $22 million in conventional media equivalency.

BUSINESS UNIT PERFORMANCE REPORT 2001/02

CORPORATE SERVICES

Tourism British Columbia is strongly committed to disciplined management practices and accountability. Through the development and implementation of efficient financial, administrative and information systems, Corporate Services continues to help contribute to the positive performance of the organization.

Over the past year, Corporate Services worked with program areas to develop performance objectives that are measurable, useful and attainable, and continued sound financial management processes that ensure the integrity of the financial data. Evidence of this comes from the unqualified auditor's opinion and management letter.

A hotel tax forecasting model was developed that cut in half the time to determine tax revenue for the month; and there were increased operational efficiencies to minimize impacts of reduced revenues from hotel receipts. These included realizing savings through Board meetings, rent, telecommunications and travel.

Another highlight of Corporate Services' achievements this year include the effective transition of Beautiful British Columbia Magazine into the corporation as a wholly owned subsidiary under Tourism British Columbia's financial and reporting framework.

HUMAN RESOURCE DEVELOPMENT

The Human Resource Development division had a very successful year in leading the organization in achieving high performance. Encouragement of an environment of support that enables staff is essential to the effective success of the corporation. With 93% of staff agreeing that they have confidence in the leadership abilities of Tourism British Columbia, we continue to confirm our position as a highly effective organization.

Our Corporate Values provide a strong base for engaging Tourism British Columbia's staff in productive and satisfying work, relevant to our clients and stakeholders.

The Human Resource Development division enables the corporation to achieve outstanding business results through a number of programs and processes. Training and travel budgets were significantly reduced and a number of vacant positions were frozen to help address the budget pressures as a result of September 11. Through these measures and many other corporate reductions, staff were not laid off as a result of September 11, which enabled us to maintain a superior level of quality customer service to our consumers and the industry.

FINANCIAL REPORT

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Operating Highlights

As our primary source of funding, Tourism British Columbia receives 1.65 points of the 8% hotel tax. Hotel tax revenue of $23.7 million was down 1.3% from last year (compared to an increase of 10.4% in the previous year), but exceeded Tourism British Columbia's revised budget estimate of -5%. The decline was due largely to the drop in the travel sector following the tragedy of September 11. The biggest months of decline were September and October, although by the end of the fiscal year, hotel tax revenues had recovered to previous year levels. For perspective, a 1% change in hotel tax impacts the corporation by approximately $240,000.

Tourism British Columbia operates under a five-year fiscal framework. Similar to previous years, budgeted expenses exceeded budgeted revenues. It is the corporation's intent to budget a consistent spend level, drawing down equity (unappropriated surplus) until hotel tax revenues "catch up" to spend levels. Under the direction of our Board, Tourism British Columbia maintains a minimum of $1 million in unappropriated surplus over a five-year horizon, to protect the corporation in the event hotel tax receipts are considerably less than expected.

On June 15, 2001, Tourism British Columbia acquired the net assets and operations of Beautiful British Columbia Magazine, a geographic and travel magazine focused on British Columbia. Results of their operations are included in the consolidated financial statements.

The corporation earned $161,500 in investment income, compared to $450,600 last year. Declining interest rates and cash balances were the reasons for the decrease. However, the corporation's average rate of return of 3.09% exceeded British Columbia Investment Management Corporation's ST1 short term money market fund benchmark.

Beautiful British Columbia Magazine revenues accounted for $2.11 million of program revenues. Excluding Beautiful British Columbia, program revenues were up over last year by 3.6%. Core call centre revenues were down slightly, but the addition of the Vancouver International Airport Visitor Info Centre boosted reservation revenues.

All divisions successfully carried out their business plans and all came in under budget, which was revised downwards following September 11.

Amortization costs of $780,000 were up from last year $660,000 but were less than budget due to a capital expenditures freeze following September 11.

Balance Sheet

Consistent with previous years, our year-end cash position was greater than our unappropriated surplus. However, this was not the case throughout most of the fiscal year. On average, Tourism British Columbia's cash balance tends to be lower as our hotel tax receivable from the Ministry of Provincial Revenue is typically greater than our average payables by about $1 million. Payables at year-end are larger than normal due to the timing of our BC Escapes® advertising program, which overlaps our fiscal year-end. Consequently, cash flows are negative in the first quarter by between $3 and $4 million.

The $3.7 million receivable from the Province of British Columbia is for hotel tax revenues earned but not yet received. Our accounting policy is to recognize the tax revenue in the period the consumer is charged the tax on their accommodation. However, it takes 6 to 10 weeks for us to receive payment from the Ministry of Provincial Revenue.

By continuing to concentrate on earlier collections, our program receivables are down 8% from last year.

Inventories have increased as merchandise revenues have grown.

FINANCIAL REPORT

The increase in prepaid expenses is due to Beautiful British Columbia's practice of incurring expenses in advance of publication. These prepaids are reversed at time of publication.

Deferred revenues represent cash received from subscribers of Beautiful British Columbia Magazine in advance of receiving the magazine.

Net capital assets shrank 25% due to reduced capital expenditures following September 11.

The Corporation's long term liabilities decreased by 25% over last year due to a conscious effort to reduce accrued leave banks by ensuring our employees take a minimum amount of vacation in a year.

Business Risk

Given our primary funding source is hotel tax, the corporation is subject to the risk of any significant downturn. The corporation is mildly optimistic that economic conditions will recover, including prospects for the tourism industry. However, due to uncertainty around world events and the economy, the corporation is forecasting a further 4% decline in hotel tax for fiscal 2003.

9. Employee benefit plans

Employee future pension benefits

The Corporation and its employees contribute to the Public Service Pension Plan in accordance with the Public Sector Pension Plans Act. The Plan is a multi-employer, defined benefit plan. On behalf of the employers, the British Columbia Pension Corporation administers the Plan, including payment of pension benefits to employees to whom the Act applies.

The most recent actuarial valuation (March 31, 1999) has determined that the plan is in a surplus position. Effective January 1, 2001, the Public Service Pension Plan's management changed to a joint trusteeship where the management, risks and benefits are shared between employees and employers. Previously these matters were the sole responsibility of the Province of British Columbia.

Employee future post-retirement benefits

Obligations for employee retirement allowances are detailed in the Corporation's collective agreement. The Corporation has accrued the estimated costs of these benefits, and has adopted the policy on a prospective basis with no retroactive restatement of prior year amounts. The amount accrued during the 2002 fiscal year is $82,261 (2001 - $96,833) and is included in long term liabilities.

11. Acquisition of Beautiful British Columbia Magazine

Effective June 15th, 2001, Tourism British Columbia acquired the sole outstanding share of the Beautiful British Columbia Magazine for $1. Results of operations from that date are included in these financial statements.

The following summarizes the assets acquired and liabilities assumed at the acquisition date.

	June 15, 2001
Current assets	$550,555
Capital assets	22,630
Intangible assets	5,578,099
Current liabilities	(548,022)
Deferred revenue	(1,603,261)
Promissory note	(4,000,000)
Purchase Price	$1

Tourism British Columbia received a $4,000,000 cash donation which was applied to pay off the promissory note.

12. Writedown of intangible asset (Beautiful British Columbia Magazine)

The $5,578,099 of acquired intangible assets (Note 11) is assigned to the subscriber list of the magazine. Review of the intangible asset valuation as at year-end indicated an impairment in value of $4 million and the carrying value has been reduced to reflect its estimated fair value of $1,578,099 as at March 31, 2002. The valuation of the subscriber list was based on a projection of management's best estimate of operating cash flows of the magazine as at March 31, 2002. Decreasing subscriptions and an aging customer base contributed to the impairment in value.

13. Comparative figures

Certain comparative figures in the financial statements have been restated to conform with the current year presentation. The comparative figures are only those of Tourism British Columbia as there were no subsidiary operations during 2001.

CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

Roles and responsibilities of the Board and CEO/Staff

In fulfilling its responsibilities under the Act, at a special meeting of Tourism British Columbia's Board of Directors held on October 6, 1997, the Board determined that it would function as a policy Board, with responsibility for achieving results delegated to the CEO. The Board provides final approval for matters concerning planning, budget, CEO contingency, financial policy, human resource policy and performance measures. They are also involved in approving within the Service Plan, items such as capital purchases, leases and major repairs. The remaining committees include the Executive Committee, Finance and Administration Committee, Business Development Committee, Marketing and Sales Committee and the Tourism Operations Committee.
