Changes to Employment Status

Material Changes in Employment

Material changes in employment status may include:

- Layoffs
- Terminations without cause
- Recall to the same position/same employer
- New job offer with a new employer
- Reduced hours of work to less than full-time (less than 30 hours per week)
- Reduction in salary that would result in failing to meet minimum/prevaling wage for the occupation
- Reduction in income that would result in failing to meet the minimum income threshold

Recruitment

Where applicants have obtained a new job offer with a new employer, at any stage of the BC PNP process, and this change is allowed as part of the assessment, the new employer will be required to demonstrate that genuine and bona fide efforts were made to recruit from the local labour market, and that hiring the applicant will not adversely affect employment or development opportunities for Canadian citizens and/or permanent residents.

General

It is your responsibility as a registrant or applicant to demonstrate that you meet the program requirements as outlined in the Program Guide.

You must meet program requirements at the time of registration and at the time of application.

Acceptance of federal or provincial financial support during COVID-19 will not affect your eligibility for nomination. However, as an applicant or nominee, you are expected to meet or continue to meet the program criteria or conditions of nomination, including demonstrating your intent to reside and ability to economically establish in B.C. in order for the BC PNP to nominate you or continue to support your nomination.

If you are not working at your usual place of work, for example if you are working from home, due to government social distancing directives, you may be eligible for nomination if you meet all other criteria.

If you are working from a location outside B.C., your work arrangement is not eligible for the program.

Documents

Before you register, we expect that you have gathered all the required documents, including language test results, education credential assessment and diplomas. However, if you cannot provide documents from third parties due to COVID-19, you must respond by the deadline stated (i.e. to meet an application deadline or a deadline to respond to an information request, etc.) with the following:

- a written explanation as to why you can't obtain the document(s), and
- evidence that you have requested the document(s) from the individual or organization who will issue them or evidence the issuing body is not issuing documents due to COVID-19

The BC PNP will follow up with you during the assessment. You should submit any missing documents to the BC PNP as soon as you receive them.

Registrants

You are expected to meet all criteria at the time of registration and at the time of application. If you experience any change in your employment that would result in you no longer meeting program criteria, you are expected to withdraw your registration and remove yourself from the registration pool. You can re-register when your employment meets all criteria. See Part 5: Process section of the Program Guide.

Please see our website for more information about special measures implemented due to COVID-19.

Invitees

If you receive an Invitation to Apply (ITA) and, immediately prior to submitting your application, you are not working for the same employer in the same position as you were when you registered, you should not submit an application. You can re-register once your employment again meets all criteria. There is no guarantee that a new ITA will be issued given that criteria and timing of ITA draws are subject to change.

If you have experienced a material change in employment before the date you received the ITA, even if you are working with the same employer in the same position, you should not submit an application. If you choose to proceed to submit an application, the application will be assessed and refused. If you withdraw the application after the BC PNP has begun assessment, we will not refund the fee.

Applicants

CAUTION: Changes to employment may have an impact on work permits which are the responsibility of the federal government. You are responsible for contacting Immigration Refugees and Citizenship Canada \(IRCC\) to find out how the change in employment may impact your work permit.

Withdrawing the Application

If you experience a material change to your employment, you must notify the BC PNP immediately.

If you experience a material change in employment after applying, you may request to withdraw your application.

If you experienced a material change in employment before the date of invitation and you did not decline the invitation, your application will be refused following assessment.

If you have resigned from your employment or have been terminated for cause, you no longer meet criteria and your application will be assessed and refused.

You may request to withdraw your application at any time. A refund will only be provided if the assessment has not begun.

Re-employment: New job offer with a new employer

If you have obtained a new job offer with a new employer, your new employer will be required to demonstrate that genuine and bona fide efforts were made to recruit from the local labour market, and that hiring you will not adversely affect employment or development opportunities for Canadian citizens and/or permanent residents.

The BC PNP will require your new employer to provide evidence of this genuine and bona fide effort to recruit from the domestic labour market. See Part 4: Employer Requirements section of the Program Guide.

Entry Level and Semi-Skilled (ELSS)

ELSS Category Requirement of 9 Months of Full-Time Employment

All of the above applies to ELSS. In addition:

As outlined in the BC PNP Program Guide, ELSS candidates must be employed and working full-time (at least an average of 30 hours a week, year round) with the B.C. employer in any ELSS occupation for at least nine consecutive months immediately prior to registering with the BC PNP. ELSS candidates must also maintain full-time employment with the B.C. employer throughout both the BC PNP and permanent residence application processes.

A previous version of the Addendum allowed for ELSS registrants to be considered to have maintained full-time employment during a temporary layoff period, but only if that layoff period ended prior to 30 AUG 2020 and the layoff period was a maximum of 24 weeks. Effective 31 AUG 2020, that temporary accommodation is no longer in place.

To meet current ELSS requirements, you must first meet the 9-month continuous employment requirement, and you must also maintain full-time employment throughout the BC PNP application process, as detailed below.

ELSS Registrants:

You are expected to meet all criteria at the time of registration and at the time of application. If you experience any change in your employment that would result in you no longer meeting program criteria, you are expected to withdraw your registration and remove yourself from the registration pool. You can re-register when your employment meets all criteria. See Part 5: Process section of the BC PNP Skills Immigration and Express Entry BC Program Guide.

ELSS Invitees:

If you are laid-off at the time you receive an ITA, you must decline the ITA. You will be removed from the registration pool, but you can re-register once you regain employment and meet all criteria.

ELSS Applicants:

If you have met the 9-month requirement at the time of registration and application but you have subsequently been laid off before the application has been finalized, you can withdraw your application. A refund will only be provided if the assessment has not begun.

If you have resigned (voluntarily leave your job) or were terminated with cause, your previous work will not be counted towards the 9-month employment requirement, even if you were re-hired by your previous employer.

If you have received a new job offer from a new employer, you will need to complete the 9 months of full-time, continuous employment again before re-registering under the ELSS category.

If you resign or were terminated, you can request to withdraw your application. You will only receive a refund if processing of your application has not begun.

International Graduate (IG)

IG Category Requirement of 3 Years from Completion of Studies for Eligibility to Apply to the IG Categories

All of the above (excepting ELSS provisions) applies to International Graduates. In addition:

IG: Registrants

In order to make updates to your registration, you are required to withdraw your registration and submit a new one. The BC PNP registration system does not allow you to make updates to an existing registration. This has an impact on your registration under the IG category as you are required to register within 3 years of completing an eligible program of study.

If you withdraw your registration or do not accept an invitation to apply because you experienced a material change to your employment, we will accept your new registration and application under the IG category if your original registration was submitted within the 3-year timeline to apply.

IG: Invitees

If you decline an ITA because of a material change to your employment, you are required to withdraw your registration and submit a new one. We will accept your registration and application under the IG category if your original registration was submitted within the 3-year timeline to apply.

The provision for the IG category will be in place until this Addendum is removed or updated.

International Graduate (IG) and International Post-Graduate (IPG)

In-Class Learning Requirement

As outlined in the current BC PNP Program Guide, distance education programs are not eligible for nomination under the BC PNP's international student categories. The BC PNP defines distance education as a program of study in which more than 50% of the credit hours are earned by completing online courses.

Given the impact of COVID-19 on the ability to attend in-class instruction, we have made a temporary policy change to the learning requirements for the IG and IPG categories.

International students who completed a program of study before March 1, 2020 must have completed 50% or more of their studies in-class.

International students who completed a program of study on or after March 1, 2020 must have completed 50% or more of their studies from within Canada.

Candidates may be required to demonstrate that this requirement is met. Examples of documents that may be submitted as evidence of residence in Canada include, but are not limited to:

- Tenancy agreements
- Utility bills
- Bank statements
- Copies of all pages of your passport

If you are applying under the IG categories, evidence of residence documents can be uploaded with your education certificates or with your immigration documents.

If you are applying under the IPG categories, evidence of residence documents can be uploaded with the documents that demonstrate your ability to live and work in B.C.

Nominees

You and your employer are required to let us know of any changes to your employment. You can follow the instructions in the BC PNP Skills Immigration and Express Entry BC Post-Nomination Guide regarding how to notify us of these changes.

Continued Support for Nomination

Until further notice, acceptance of federal or provincial financial support during COVID-19 will not affect your nomination. However, nominees are expected to continue to meet the conditions of nomination, including demonstrating your intent to reside and ability to economically establish in B.C. in order for the BC PNP to continue to support your nomination.

We are working with IRCC on the impact of COVID-19 on the permanent residence process.

Withdrawal of Nomination

If you or your employer has not informed the BC PNP of changes to your employment, or where we have identified program integrity concerns, we will request additional information/documents in order to determine whether the BC PNP will continue support your nomination.
